

USDA Forest Service - Celebrating Wildflowers Coloring Page

Blue-eyed Mary

Collinsia parviflora the Figwort Family

A very delicate and often overlooked annual. It flowers early with tiny (less than one-fourth of an inch) hump-back flowers. The leaves are usually reddish purple in color. It is very common in the foothills in the early spring.

USDA Forest Service - Celebrating Wildflowers Coloring Page

Wood's Rose

Rosa woodsii the Rose Family

This wild rose blooms in early summer with delightfully fragrant, showy, pink blossoms that resemble garden roses. These shrubs have spiny stems and pinnately compound leaves. The fruits are often called "hips" and are a good winter food for wildlife. They contain high levels of vitamin C, and are often made into jelly or dried for tea.

USDA Forest Service - Celebrating Wildflowers Coloring Page

Dusky beardtongue

Penstemon whippleanus Scrophulariaceae the Figwort Family

The tube-shaped flowers are grouped in nodding clusters at the top of the flowering stem. The flowers are usually a dingy purple in color. This is a common wildflower throughout the mountains from ponderosa pine to timberline.

USDA Forest Service - Celebrating Wildflowers Coloring Page

Harebell

Campanula rotundifolia Campanulaceae the Bellflower Family

The purple flowers are bell shaped and hang slightly downward from a slender stem. This plant is very widespread. In the northern hemisphere it can be found from the low elevation foothills all the way to the alpine tundra.

